Janet was responsible for building and delivering the first program for Senior Executives TASC ever had. I would highly recommend her and would utilize her skills again without hesitation.

I had the pleasure of working with Janet several years ago and continue to rely on the skills she taught me during our sessions.

She operates as a true partner - helping her clients to not just decipher, but optimize their individual leadership traits in order to positively impact their respective business environments. She masterfully balances the more academic elements of coaching and leadership "best practices" with the respective needs of the client, driving a lot of outcome-focused self-discovery. I recommend Janet without hesitation.
